Environmental Stewardship Awards

Categories of award:

Individual – This award will be presented to an individual for outstanding efforts that were primarily initiated, promoted and managed by the applicant/nominee. Nominees should exhibit good environmental stewardship characteristics, initiative, and commitment.

Student – This award will be presented to a student who has exercised positive environmental practices and clearly demonstrates leadership, commitment to stewardship, and achievement in applying knowledge gained in the classroom.

Institutional – Institutional recipients must represent efforts working to foster environmental principles. Examples of groups may include schools, nonprofit organizations, community organizations, and similar parties that have a defined social or task goal.

Agriculture – the agriculture award is intended to be presented to any individual actively involved in agriculture that has exercised initiative, demonstrated positive environmental practices, and has successfully displayed advancement in an agricultural practice.

Business/Industry – the category is intended to award businesses that make a decided effort to ensure that their practices logically fit into an overall positive environmental management perspective. Many businesses take on beneficial efforts that all too often go unrecognized. These efforts may include technical efforts or efforts to create partnerships for environmental benefit.
